

Mini-saga Challenges - home-schoolers & fellow volunteers

Oral history project - Rail Tales & Track Yacks!

Dave Carlisle, Chairman, FoBS

Mini-saga Challenge – home-schoolers

Why bother?

What was it?

Who did it?

Worth it?

I hurried through the judding crowds until I reached the edge. I looked down onto the parallel rails thinking about when the train would be there, still and unmoving, waiting to leave. The train arrived and I darted inside. Inside I sat down and then we started moving. Holiday time!

The secret train painters appeared last night. The body was purple, the windows blue and red. There were orange seats and a brown carpet with white spots. If you found the train unusual then you should have seen the signal: An amazing rainbow of bright colours. The circus had arrived!

Wilfred was at Buckton Station staring at the train moving away when he heard the peculiar sound of an elephant trumpeting. He ran over and he saw a man with a gun. "Stand back we are going to shoot it." But he jumped in the way and saved it. YEY!!!!

Mini-saga Challenge – volunteers

Why bother?

What was it?

Who did it?

Worth it?

Watch & Listen here:

<https://communityrail.org.uk/events-training/community-rail-awards/friends-buxton-mini-sagas/>

Oral history project – Rail Tales & Track Yacks!

Why bother?

What was it?

Who did it?

Worth it?

Podcast in WAV or MP3 formats, downloadable from here:

<https://u.pcloud.link/publink/show?code=VZyPrbXZUorqh6rpTuVh2Txz9gecaukwITuy&fbclid=IwAR39G-jOZojdUTJHMIWxz9Ru-ZxJ0CBeU5sxWZi61tb5vKBZZ0QLa2ivjeE>